SAFETY INFORMATION

Children's beds

Product group	Applies to children's beds, including models with or without guard rails, house beds, beds with drawers and models with an additional sleeping space. Does not apply to cots.

This document provides general information on the safe assembly and use of products in the specified group. Use it together with the assembly instructions for the particular model, the markings on the product and packaging, and the product-specific information on permitted loads, dimensions and fixing methods.

IMPORTANT: If the instructions for a particular model contain more specific requirements, restrictions or warnings, those take precedence over this general information.

Before assembly

- Assembly must be carried out by an adult in accordance with the instructions for the particular model.
- Before starting, check that all parts and fittings are present. Do not use parts that are damaged, cracked, deformed or inconsistent with the instructions.
- Place the furniture on a stable, level surface. Do not modify its structure or use unsuitable replacement fixings.

Mattress and protective parts

- Use a mattress of the dimensions and thickness specified for the particular model. A mattress that is too small or unsuitable may create dangerous gaps.
- If the bed has a guard rail, fit it exactly in the position specified in the instructions and regularly check that its fixings are secure.
- Do not remove or alter protective parts specified by the manufacturer.

Safe use

- The bed is intended for sleeping and resting. Do not jump on it or climb on guard rails, roofs, sides or other structural parts.
- Do not exceed the maximum load specified for the particular model.
- For models with a drawer or additional sleeping space, pull these out and use them as instructed. Do not stand on extended parts.
- Do not place the bed next to open flames, strong heat sources or where a child can reach cables, blind cords, curtains or other items that may pose an entanglement risk.

Inspection and maintenance

- Regularly check that screws are tight, the structure is stable and protective parts are in good condition.
- Stop using the product if the structure becomes loose, a part cracks, stability is lost or fittings are damaged. Do not resume use until the fault has been corrected.
- Use cleaning products suitable for furniture surfaces. Do not allow prolonged exposure to moisture.

If a safety concern arises

If the product is damaged or is suspected of presenting a hazard, stop using it and contact the manufacturer. Do not make structural modifications yourself.
